

REVISTA ESPAÑOLA DE CIENCIA POLÍTICA

NÚMERO 60
NOVIEMBRE 2022

Sección monográfica: Active learning in Comparative Politics and (critical) International Relations

Marina Díaz Sanz y Lucía Ferreiro Prado (coords.)

Using active methodologies in the Political Science and International Relations classrooms in Spain: Views from instructors

Lucía Ferreiro Prado

Learning about political systems while playing: Testing short-term knowledge retention through a role-play classroom game

Gibrán Cruz-Martínez, Óliver Soto y Ana Belén Benito

Films, world politics and the International Relations classroom: Learning to do a postcolonial analysis of The Breadwinner

Marina Díaz Sanz

The case method in the teaching of contemporary Arab political thought: The shutdown of the pan-Arab newspaper al-Hayāt as a case study

Juan A. Macías-Amoretti

Deconstructing geopolitics in the classroom. Grasping geopolitical codes through active learning

Alice Martini

Using popular culture to make sense of the 2011
antiauthoritarian popular revolts in the MENA region:
Theory and practice of the use of graphic novels and comics
in classrooms

Beatriz Tomé-Alonso y María Ángeles Alaminos-Hervás

Aprendizaje basado en proyectos: una metodología para activar el compromiso, la motivación y el interés en las aulas de Ciencia Política

Igor Ahedo-Gurrutxaga

¿Una oportunidad para qué? Los grupos de interés del turismo ante el impacto de la COVID-19 en el sector

María Velasco González

¿Qué mueve a confiar en la gobernanza colaborativa?
Análisis de un programa gubernamental en el País Vasco

Xabier Barandiarán, María-José Canel y Geert Bouckaert

Sumario del número 60

Sección monográfica: Active learning in Comparative Politics and (critical) International Relations

Introduction

Marina Díaz Sanz y Lucía Ferreiro Prado 13-17

Using active methodologies in the Political Science and International Relations classrooms in Spain: Views from instructors

Lucía Ferreiro Prado 19-52

Learning about political systems while playing: Testing short-term knowledge retention through a role-play classroom game

Gibrán Cruz-Martínez, Óliver Soto y Ana Belén Benito 53-83

Films, world politics and the International Relations classroom: Learning to do a postcolonial analysis of The Breadwinner

Marina Díaz Sanz 85-113

The case method in the teaching of contemporary Arab political thought: The shutdown of the pan-Arab newspaper al-Hayât as a case study

Juan A. Macías-Amoretti 115-144

Deconstructing geopolitics in the classroom. Grasping geopolitical codes through active learning

Alice Martini 145-173

Using popular culture to make sense of the 2011 antiauthoritarian popular revolts in the MENA region: Theory and practice of the use of graphic novels and comics in classrooms

Beatriz Tomé-Alonso y María Ángeles Alaminos-Hervás 175-193